Sometime after Southern started using mechanical stokers, the above warning label began appearing on the rear of the tender. The dimensions of this warning label are not exactly clear and there are very few photos with high resolution to substantiate the size. However, noted author, historian and modeler J.C. Pashal believes the label is between 8 X 10" & 10 X 14". Although not to any model scale, the above graphics can be sized up or down to any scale as long as height & width dimensions are maintained. I have provided model scale graphics of the above art in the dorm of DECAL Artwork.
